

POSTING for RESEARCHER/COMMUNICATOR to SUPPORT COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

In March 2019, the ECUAD Faculty Association's 2014-2019 contract with ECUAD Administration will expire. In January 2019, the ECUADFA will form a Bargaining Committee to renegotiate our contract.

Currently, the ECUADFA is looking for faculty members to research and prepare materials that will be used to assist the Bargaining Committee.

Regular and Non-Regular faculty members are welcome and encouraged to participate in this project, to best represent the priorities of our entire membership.

Goals of the position:

- Research and organize information that will later help the Bargaining Committee to advocate for the needs of the membership
- Work to build unity, support and engagement within the membership

ROLE DESCRIPTION

The Researcher(s) will work with the Faculty Association Executive Committee. Tasks may include:

- Meet with faculty members to discuss priorities for bargaining and strengthen our local network
- Update and compile information, which could include: finances and policies at ECU in comparison with other institutions in BC and also other art universities, including comparisons of Collective Agreements
- Communicate what's been researched through graphics, briefs and accessible documents
- Identifying strategies and articulate arguments to deal with anticipated challenges
- Build communication and solidarity with faculty members as well as other community members (CUPE, Student Union, staff, admin)

Requirements: Research skills, organizational skills, interest in current education and political issues.

Activities run: Summer and/or Fall semester 2018 – schedule to be determined

Compensation Options: A studio course release or a stipend (approximately $5500/course).
